SPECIAL NOTES

Brassière, page 8. This drafting is suitable for the fuller figure. It is comfortable and supporting. The brassière should be made in double mosquito net, as it moulds to the figure. Short bones may be inserted.

The dotted line across the front drafting is given to show the position for a strengthening layer of cotton or fabric to the waist.

Princess Slip, Fig. 9, is suitable for all figures ; the darts given in the drafting give good shape and fitting.

Dressing Gown, Fig. 13. The fronts should be faced to extend 1½-in. on the shoulder to 4-in. wide at the bottom. The gown can be trimmed with braid or cord, or bound with silk.

Pyjamas. The blouse fronts should be faced to extend 1-in. on the shoulder to 3-in. wide at the waist.
